Bible As An Ebucator

In his address to the British educational conference, Viscount Bryce deplored the increasing unfamiliarity of school children with the Bible. Undoubtedly in this age of religious relaxation and education in nonsectarian schools and college boys and girls are grounded in the Bible to only a very moderate extent. The old contact with it in the family circle is gone, and the Sunday school is about the only agency left through which the younger generation gets its konwledge of the Bible, either as doctrine or as literature. It is not extravagant to say that the loss of such knowledge would be a great misfortune, looking at it only from the educational point of view. The English language as employed in the King James version rises to a dignity and harmony in prose and to an exquisite balance between vigor and beauty which it attains nowhere else. To cut of a pupil in the formative years from access to that masterpiece of expression is to deprive him of an almost indispensable standard by which to measure the power and purity of the English tongue. Happy is the old-fashioned boy or girl who went unwillingly to family worship or struggled half-heartedly with the prayerbook or the Westminister catechism. In educational value alone the bread thus cast in travail of spirit upon the waters has returned to feed him or her abundantly in later years. Benton Co. Enterprise.

The Fool Hath Said

Take a cell from the brain of Edison, one from the mind of Marconi, one from that of Kipling and one cell each from the brains of the greatest statesmen, the greatest soldier, the greatest philanthropist, the greatest preacher, the greatest lawyer, and the most famous doctor; knit these vibrant, potential cells together in one gigantic intellect, and you will have produced a man who will rule the world, says the Los Angeles Times. Such a man would not only be the emperor of the earth, but he would be the master of all elements of earth and sea and sky. And yet such a man would not be capable of creating a grain of sand. He would only be ruling the engine that a still mighter intellect has manufactured. Day after day, year after year we see the constant manifestation and unfoldment of the Master mind. We saw it in the planting of seed and the development from that seed in the flower and fruit. We observe the same systematic unfoldment and growth in the mental and spirtual natures of ourselves and those about us yet we hear that there are those who doubt that lofty intelligence that holds the stars in their courses. - Ex.

The Folly of Church Rivalry

There are about a score of churches in this town—they differ in many things, which each no doubt thinks is essential to salvation. It is folly for them to quarrel about these differences. There are a great many other people in this town who have not yet found their way clear to belong to any church. It is folly of them to quarrel with their neighbors who, perhaps, have had a clearer light, leading them to their duty in such a matter. But here's the thing worth while remembering"- the fundamentals of the teaching of the Great Master are the things that go to make up good citizenship, whether inside or outside the church. Living as nearly as we may to these teachings bring joy and happiness in this world, and disregard of them bring sorrow and despair. This is not a theoryit is a fact plainly self-evident to any man or woman of experience in the world. Therefore, may we not all work in some degree of unity for the betterment of our lives here? We think so-Gomer Davies, in the Con-

A Boy's Essay On Girls

Girls is sisters of boys and has long hair, wears dr s es and powder. The first girl was Coristmas Eve, though I never could tell why. Most every family has one girl. There is one n ourn that is my sister.

Girls can grow older and get younger. My sister has been 25 years old for the last three years and some day maybe we'll be twins. Girls play the planner and talk to each other. Fat girls want to be thin, and thin girls want to be fat and they all want to

Why the Lord made girls nobody knows, but I think it was to go to church and eat ice cream. There is three kinds of girls-brunet girls, blonde girls, and them that has money. Girls, are afraid of mice and bugs, which makes it fun to put 'em down their backs.
